Europcar group, a major player in mobility markets, launches Europcar Global Driver Services, a new mobility service that simplifies the first and last trip kilometers. This service is available for both B2B and B2C customers.

SAINT-QUENTIN EN YVELINES, France--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 18, 2018-- Regulatory News:

Europcar Global Driver Services, new product for an easier travel

Europcar (Paris:EUCAR) develops its driver service offer leveraging the benefits of brunel's technology platform to provide its customers with a seamless end to end global travel solution, another step to meeting new mobility demands.

Brunel is a europcar company based in London, UK. It was acquired in 2016 and operates globally within ride-hailing markets.

Europcar customers are now able to book a chauffeur for the first and last kilometers of their trips in some European countries and soon available in all Europcar network. A shuttle between the train station and the airport or a few hours of shopping between two flights with a chauffeur, is now easily available on europcar.com.

Sheila Struyck, Managing Director of the New Mobility Business Unit said that "Europcar Global Driver Services, will complete the Europcar brand promise for clients who look for a professional driver to transport them. Allowing customers to book chauffeur transportation for the same trip simplifies travel planning and will allow them to feel completely relaxed when travelling. Business and leisure travelers trust Europcar for its high standards in terms of service and its vision of new mobility"

It is available to all budgets through its three service levels: economy, business and first class. All service levels have best in class professional drivers, insurance, direct confirmation and flexibility in both the modification and cancellation policy.
